1. Europe`s first mountain railways celebrates 150 years

«I want to transport people from far and wide to the top of this mountain so that they too can enjoy the beauty of this great land!» These are the words of Niklaus Riggenschach: engineer and pioneer of locomotive trains. His idea to build the very first mountain railway in Europe connecting Vitznau and Rigi Kulm was initially met with much skepticism. Many believed that Riggenschach`s ideas were mad and critics questioned his unconventional approach. But he remained true to his convictions.

Riggenschach was able to patent his innovative cog-wheel railway invention in France in 1862 and on June 9th, 1869, the Grand Council of the Canton of Lucerne granted him the concession to build the railway. On his birthday, May 21st, 1871, the first mountain railway in Europe huddled and chugged its way up towards Rigi Kulm. In those days, no one could possibly have predicted how successful and reliable this masterpiece would become and how many people would experience the magic of being transported up to Rigi Kulm and back down to the valley in such style. This fateful day was the first successful step towards establishing the modern-day Mount Rigi Railways.

2. A proud and historic train collection – ready for action.

The historical train collection is the pride and joy of Mount Rigi Railways. In addition to the regular train departures, these nostalgic locomotives and carriages can be chartered by guests at any time. Two steam engines (built in 1923 and 1925 respectively), 2 saloon carriages “Belle Epoque” (1873), the ARB-carriage Nr. 6 (1911, oldest cogwheel-railcar in the world), ARB-carriage Nr. 35 (1899), an original Rigi Pullmann-composition (carriages 6 & 35), etc. Most of these witnesses to history are still in service today. In order to maintain them, Mount Rigi Railways collaborates closely with the Rigi Historic Foundation. Its purpose is to ensure that these historically-significant constructions, locomotives, railways cars, and carriages can be maintained and restored for generations to come.

3. Historical Locomotive No. 7 (s`Sibni)

The steam Locomotive No. 7 was built in 1873 by the Swiss Locomotive and Machine Works SLM in Winterthur. After 64 years the old lady was withdrawn from traffic in 1937 and in 1959 she was transferred to the Swiss Museum of Transport in Lucerne. To commemorate the 150th Anniversary of Mount Rigi Railways, Locomotive #7 (or «s`Sibni» as she is sometimes referred to as) has been restored with a great deal of expert knowledge and passion and will once again travel the rails on the Queen of the Mountains. From June until September, 2021, guests will be treated to exclusive steam train departures and can experience history up close.
